F. Shroeder, mother of Miss Shroeder, was hostess at her home in Crawford. The marriage of Miss Shroeder and Mr. Marsh will occur in the late summer. The bride to be, while not a resident of this city, is nevertheless well known here, where she had spent the past three years as head of the music department of the Fairmont Normal school, and during her residence here she has been prominently identified with the musical and social interests of the community. She had been director of the choir of Christ Episcopal church and active also in the music department of the Woman's club. Mr. Marsh is a law student at this time in the University of Maryland and upon the completion of his course will locate in Baltimore, where he is also a member of the Little Theatre and Trust company. Diemer, tenor, and John Reed, baritone, sang the piece accompanied by Mrs. E. E. Church, organist, before a large audience. The solo parts as rendered by each of the quartette were splendidly sung and the chorus work was exceptionally good. So splendid an impression did it make on those who were so brave as to face the elements of their repetition and it probably will be repeated next week or the week following if such can be arranged.
